Soon after the Balaklals Copper company was formed, the Guggenheim interests acquired 80,000 shares. At that time the property was managed by the Boston management with the frinity Copper company whereby the balaklals would treat Trinity ores at it was protected by a supplementary contract with the American Smelting plants, and will let the contract for the new building within the next few days. The company, to improve the grade of matte produced from its smelter as far as possible, is securing some highly satisfactory fluxing rock from the Centennial-Eureka property of Tintic.

Nevadas in San Prancisco dames A Sames A Balaklah: would treat Trinity ores but it was protected by a supplementary contract with the American Smelters Securities company, wherein it agreed that if at any time the Balaklaha company so desired, it could, upon a given notice to the American Smelters Securities company divert such ores to the latter company's smelters. In other words, the treatment of Trinity ores was optional with the Balaklaha company. On a high metal market, therefore, it could use its smelter capacity for the treatment of its own ores and on a low copper market, it could treat Trinity ores if it so elected.

The Balaklala also made a contract with the American Smelting and Refining people whereby the Guggenheim fining people whereby the Guggenheim interests would treat all the matte from the Balaklala smelter at cost, plus a charge of $1 per ton. When this contract was made the Guggenheim interests contemplated the erection of a big smelter and converting plant at San Bruno on San Francisco bay, but their plans were interfered with by the agricultural interests, who forced them to abandon their plans after on expenditure of about $1,500,000.

abandon their plans after on expenditure of about $1,500,000.

Such abandonment made the contracts with the Balaklala company very disadvantageous, as freight charges to their other plants would be so high that it would make the treatment of Trinity ores or Balaklala matte unprofitable. They found a way out of this contract, however, for, on October 3, without the knowledge of either the stockholders or the board of directors of the Balaklala Copper company. W.

Breveort, president of that company, made a new contract with the American Smelting and Refining interests which nullified the former favorable contracts. Under the new arrangement, the Balaklala company wibuild a converting plant to treat its matte as well as the matte of the Trinity company, and will force the Balaklala company to treat all the Trinity ores without alternative.

It is also understood that some of the American Smelting and Refining and Refining and Refining and Refining and the Trinity or the treatment of Trinity the treatment of Trinity are without alternative.

The piling up of bank reserves has spent its force as an influence in stimulating speculative buying of stocks, and the assumption with new banks would show another large gain in cash holdings, although the statement was not published until after the close of the market and was not an important factor in the market.

The reduction of the official discount rate of the Imperial Bank of Germany was not likely to prove of much influence in this market, after the small attention excited by the reductions in the English and French bank rate earlier in the week. Prediction of Heavy Increase in Shipments Is the Chief Bearish Feature.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 .- The wheat market opened weak despite the fact that Liverpool reported higher prices. The bearish sentiment increased as the day advanced and the market was weak from the start to finish. The chief depressing factor was the prediction that for the coming week the shipments would be 2,000,000 bushels more than the corresponding week of last year. The running up of the Austrian shipments for the week to more than 1,400,000 bushels from 512,000 in the preceding week was also a strong bear movement. May wheat opened unchanged at $1.024, sold between $1 and $1.024, and closed at $4.002.

The corn market was relatively stronger than wheat, but the market sold off in sympathy with wheat and was generally weak throughout the day. STRAWBERRIES DROP TO VERY LOW PRICES Dealers on Market Row Virtually Give Away Luscious . Fruit.

Strawberries could be had on market row Saturday at almost any price, ranging from 20 cents a box down to two boxes for 25 cents. When the berries came on the market two weeks ago the best price was 25 cents the box, and the demand was so heavy at that price that most of the merchants put the fruit on their stands and began cutting the prices. most of the merchants put the fruit on their stands and began cutting the prices. The finest oranges on the market are selling at 5 cents apiece—60 cents a dozen—and run as low as 20 cents a dozen. Some time ago the prices on oranges went up because the packers in California were "builing" the market and that they made a success of the attempt is evident through the fact that the prices made have stuck.

Eggs are on the market at the same price of 25 and 30 cents a dozen. Butter still scells at 30 cents per pound.

still sells at 30 cents per pound.
